McCloskey joins VRC's Portfolio Valuation Group in its Princeton Office

Princeton, NJ, (January 16, 2017) – Valuation Research Corporation (VRC), a leading provider of independent valuation support, is pleased to announce Matthew McCloskey joined the firm's Princeton office as a financial analyst.

"We are pleased to welcome Matt to VRC," said John Czapl, Managing Director. "He has relevant experience valuing portfolio holdings and will be a great addition to our team."

McCloskey joins VRC from SEI Investments where he was an Investment Accounting Analyst. McCloskey has also worked at the Monmouth University Student-Run Investment Fund (Hawks Capital), Aeon Funds, and Summit Financial Resources. He received his Bachelor of Science in Business Administration from Monmouth University.

VRC's portfolio valuation group provides independent valuations for mutual funds, hedge funds, private equity firms and others seeking an accurate valuation of hard to value assets.

About VRC
